Change for health

Small changes to recipes can make a difference to your health. Think about what you like to cook, and how you could adapt these dishes to meet current healthy eating recommendations.

Cooking

Skills for life!

When planning to cook, there are a lot of factors to consider:

* time, ingredients and equipment
* your food skills
* your food preferences
* how to adapt ingredients and cooking methods to make dishes healthier and look more appealing

Using different cooking methods can affect the quality and nutritional value of foods.

To make sure what you eat is safe, care must also be taken when you buy, store, prepare and cook food.
